Brian and Kris Threatening My Life

Incident on February 20, 2023

On February 20, 2023, my birthday, at around 4:00 AM, I was awakened by a knock on my window. It was Kris Gellings, who had crossed the street to my house. Surprised, I asked who it was. He identified himself, so I opened the front door and let him in. He immediately began accusing me of sleeping with his girlfriend, displaying intense jealousy and anger. He mentioned seeing a pink coat in the house, which further fueled his rage.

Kris took it upon himself to go down the hallway and look into my bedroom, opening all the other doors in the house. I told him aggressively to get out of my house. He then threatened my life three times and fired off his gun inside my house. According to Brian Topping, this incident happened again weeks later, although I am unsure of the exact date. This left me in a frightened state throughout my entire birthday.

Brian Topping would often reach out to tell me that Kris was shooting his gun in his house, pretending not to be part of the situation while actually leading it. Kris was a person with a weak character, easily influenced by Brian.

Introduction

I, Jason Alexander Chase, residing at 402-8329 01 N. Manchester Pl., Boise, ID 83704, and contactable via phone at 208-863-4652, hereby present this document to memorialize the events and statements relevant to my defamation case against Brian Topping.

I am a 45-year-old sober combat veteran who is retired and disabled. I hold five degrees in higher education and have spent 12 years in data sciences. Throughout my career, I have maintained a reputation of integrity and professionalism, working in legal services and making significant contributions to my community.

On multiple occasions, Brian Topping has engaged in behavior that has defamed my character and caused significant distress. These incidents include, but are not limited to, false accusations of drug use, public outbursts, and attempts to manipulate and control personal relationships.

Incident Details

Initial Relocation and Interactions

Details: In an effort to start anew, I relocated to Boise, Idaho. Upon arrival, I received minimal assistance from friends, with Kris Gellings being the only one who helped me unload my truck. Despite others promising support, they did not follow through.

July 4-5 Incident at AMI's Mother's House

Details: During the Independence Day weekend, after a few days of partying at Kris's house, I moved to AMI's mother's house. Brian Topping, acting erratically, approached AMI and cruelly told her, "I don't even f*cking love you," causing her significant emotional distress. I provided comfort to AMI during this time.

September 22 Incident at the Oasis Festival

Details: On September 22, 2022, during the trip to the Oasis Festival near Mountain Home Air Force Base, Brian's behavior became increasingly erratic. He made incoherent statements, claiming to be God and accusing AMI of controlling him. This culminated in a public outburst on stage, causing a scene that embarrassed everyone involved. Shaggy Rogers, a respected figure at the festival, intervened, telling Brian to leave the stage.

Brian's Apology Attempts and Boundary Violations

Details: Over the next few months, Brian made multiple attempts to apologize for his actions, but his apologies were insincere. Despite setting clear boundaries, Brian repeatedly violated them, particularly during the Kristmas and New Year period.

Introduction of Female A and Female B

Details: Two new individuals, Female A and Female B, sought refuge from Brian's behavior at my house. One night, while I was teaching them to play cribbage, Brian arrived uninvited, attempted to apologize, but indicated he didn't want to discuss his behavior. He stayed for most of the evening, making inappropriate advances towards Female B, who refused.

Kris's Tragic Death

Details: In a tragic turn of events, Kris died from a fentanyl overdose a couple of months ago. He had consumed the drug assuming it was cocaine. This incident happened on Sentinel, adding a layer of suspicion and highlighting the potential dangers associated with the risky behaviors influenced by Brian.

Thanksgiving Incident (Incident #10)

Date: November 24, 2022

Location: Kris's house

Event: Thanksgiving gathering with family and friends

Key Individuals:

- Kris: Host of the dinner, careful and considerate in managing the event.
- Brian: Present in the basement.
- AMI: Arrived during the event, known to have ongoing issues with Brian.
- Tanya: Involved and influenced by Brian, potentially manipulative.

Details:

- Kris organized a well-planned Thanksgiving dinner.
- Guests included family and friends, with a notable emphasis on creating a pleasant atmosphere.
- Brian was in the basement while the rest of the guests were in the living room.

- AMI arrived and immediately engaged in conversation with Brian, indicating potential tension.
 - Over the past six months, I had been in regular contact with AMI, providing support through daily conversations.
 - Anticipating potential conflict, I decided to leave the event to avoid triggering my PTSD symptoms.
 - I informed Tanya Seehan of my decision to stay home and manage my symptoms.
 - From my bedroom, I observed AMI, Brian, and two others approaching my yard.
 - Recognizing the individuals from a previous incident involving Brian, I prepared myself for a potential confrontation.
 - I stepped out onto the front porch and addressed the group, clearly stating that I was experiencing a PTSD episode and requested they not enter my home.
 - Despite my clear communication, AMI attempted to push her way inside, breaching my boundary.
 - I calmly guided AMI back outside without any physical harm.
 - Inside my home, I expressed my frustration, but no one was hurt or assaulted.

Incident Following the Oasis Festival

Context and Key Individuals

Date: Likely the Friday after the Oasis Festival (specific date to be confirmed)

Key Individuals:

- Kris: Host of the house where Brian was staying
- Brian: Subject of the incident
- Billy Heath: Brian's friend and prominent public figure in Boise
- AMI: Contacted you about Brian's behavior

Billy Heath's Character

Billy Heath: Billy is a respected public figure in Boise, known for his hard work and integrity. He is one of the prominent figures associated with the Konnexion Music Festival and is recognized for his contributions to the community. Billy runs a successful construction business with his friend and is known for his sound character and dedication to his work.

Sequence of Events

- Kris's Decision:
 - Following the erratic behavior displayed by Brian at the Oasis Festival, Kris decided to kick Brian out of his house.
 - This decision was made the day after the festival, likely on the first Friday after the event.
- Relocation to Billy Heath's House:
 - Brian moved back to Billy Heath's house after being kicked out by Kris.

- Billy Heath is a respected public figure in Boise, known for his hard work in the construction industry.
- Incident at Billy Heath's House:
 - AMI contacted you, explaining that she visited Brian at Billy's house.
 - During this visit, Brian became erratic again and threatened to call the police on AMI.
- Mental Health Crisis:
 - It was understood that following this incident, Billy also decided to kick Brian out of his house.
 - Brian was subsequently taken to a mental hospital in Boise for evaluation and inpatient treatment.
- Medical Evaluation and Diagnosis:
 - Brian was diagnosed with drug-induced psychosis and prescribed antipsychotic medications.
 - It is noted that Brian was advised to continue taking these medications, although he is currently not adhering to this medical advice.

Importance and Relevance

- Connection to Oasis Incident: This incident ties back to the erratic behavior Brian exhibited at the Oasis Festival, highlighting a pattern of instability.
- Mental Health: Brian's diagnosis and the fact that he was not adhering to his prescribed medication is significant, as it provides context for his behavior and supports the claim of drug-induced psychosis.
- Impact on Relationships: The fallout from Brian's behavior has affected his relationships with both Kris and Billy, further illustrating the disruptive nature of his actions.

Summary of Detailed Personal Impact and Conditions

The "Detailed Personal Impact and Conditions" section provides an in-depth look into the various psychological and emotional conditions affecting the individual. It explores the complexities of Complex PTSD (CPTSD) and Combat PTSD, highlighting symptoms such as night sweats, hypervigilance, and emotional outbursts, and their profound impact on daily life.

Additionally, the section delves into Adult Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD) Combined Type, detailing challenges like inattention, hyperactivity, and impulsivity. It explains how these symptoms interfere with personal and professional aspects of life.

Furthermore, the section discusses Twice Exceptional Individuals, those who are both gifted and have learning disabilities, and the unique struggles they face. It emphasizes their high intellectual abilities and the difficulties they encounter in reading, writing, and social interactions.

The section also addresses the severe psychological impact of defamation, particularly focusing on the case involving Brian Topping. It outlines the heightened paranoia, emotional outbursts, and the exacerbation of existing conditions due to ongoing defamation, underlining the critical need for therapy and support.

Introduction to CPTSD and Combat PTSD

Definition: Complex PTSD (CPTSD) results from prolonged exposure to traumatic events, often involving harm or abandonment by a caregiver. Combat PTSD is experienced by military personnel due to traumatic events in combat. Symptoms include re-experiencing trauma, avoidance, negative changes in thoughts and mood, and heightened arousal and reactivity.

Symptoms and Daily Struggles:

- Night Sweats and Inability to Sleep: Nightmares and night sweats disrupt sleep patterns, leading to chronic fatigue. (Van Der Kolk, 2014)
- Cold Sweats: Physical reactions to stress or memories of the trauma. (Herman, 1992)
- Outbursts: Emotional dysregulation leading to sudden and intense outbursts of anger or frustration. (APA, 2013)
- Hypervigilance: Constantly being on high alert can be exhausting and contribute to anxiety. (Smith et al., 2020)
- Triggers: Everyday situations can trigger intense memories, causing significant distress. (Van Der Kolk, 2014)

Impact on Daily Life:

- Personal Relationships: Emotional volatility strains relationships, leading to isolation. (Herman, 1992)
 - Work and Professional Life: Concentration issues and absenteeism impact job performance. (APA, 2013)
 - Physical Health: Chronic pain and immune system suppression due to constant stress. (Smith et al., 2020)

Introduction to ADHD Combined Type

Definition: ADHD Combined Type is characterized by a combination of inattentive and hyperactive-impulsive symptoms. Symptoms include difficulty sustaining attention, disorganization, procrastination, restlessness, impulsive decisions, and frequent interruptions.

Symptoms and Daily Struggles:

- Difficulty Sustaining Attention: Challenges in focusing on tasks for extended periods. (Barkley, 2014)
- Disorganization: Chronic disorganization leads to misplaced items and missed appointments. (Brown, 2005)
- Procrastination: Tendency to procrastinate leads to last-minute rushes and suboptimal performance. (Barkley, 2014)
- Restlessness: Constant need to move, fidget, or tap. (Brown, 2005)

- Impulsive Decisions: Hasty decisions without considering consequences. (Barkley, 2014)
- Interrupting Others: Frequent interruptions in conversations. (Brown, 2005)

Impact on Daily Life:

- Personal Relationships: Misunderstandings and conflicts with friends and family. (Barkley, 2014)
 - Work and Professional Life: Performance issues and job instability. (Brown, 2005)
 - Physical Health: Sleep disorders and high levels of stress and anxiety. (Barkley, 2014)

Introduction to Twice Exceptional (2e) Individuals

Definition: Twice exceptional individuals are both gifted and have a learning disability. They possess high intellectual capabilities but face challenges in areas like reading, writing, or social interactions.

Symptoms and Daily Struggles:

- High Intellectual Abilities: Exceptional problem-solving skills and creativity. (Baum & Owen, 2004)
- Rapid Learning: Ability to grasp complex concepts quickly. (Foley Nicpon et al., 2011)
- Dyslexia: Difficulties in reading and writing. (Baum & Owen, 2004)
- Social Challenges: Struggles with social interactions and forming relationships. (Foley Nicpon et al., 2011)

Impact on Daily Life:

- Personal Relationships: Social isolation and misunderstandings. (Baum & Owen, 2004)
 - Work and Professional Life: Underachievement and job dissatisfaction. (Foley Nicpon et al., 2011)
 - Physical Health: Stress and increased risk of anxiety and depression. (Baum & Owen, 2004)

Daily Impact of Defamation

Heightened Hypervigilance and Paranoia: Continuous defamation increases anxiety and hypervigilance. (APA, 2013)

Increased Emotional Outbursts: Constant attacks lead to frequent emotional outbursts. (Van Der Kolk, 2014)

Exacerbation of Symptoms: The stress from defamation exacerbates symptoms of CPTSD, ADHD, and twice-exceptionality. (Smith et al., 2020)

Detailed Analysis of the Psychological Impact:

- Paranoia and Hypervigilance: The defamation has heightened paranoia and hypervigilance, causing constant fear and anxiety. (APA, 2013)
- Emotional Distress: The false accusations and public outbursts have led to severe emotional distress, affecting relationships and professional commitments. (Van Der Kolk, 2014)
- Need for Therapy: Continuous psychological harm necessitates intensive therapy to manage symptoms and regain stability. (Smith et al., 2020)
